

AP US GoPo Journal Review

Every few weeks you will be expected to read and review an article that relates to the chapter we are studying. For example, when we are studying civil liberties, you could read an article about restrictions on freedom of speech. Turn in a journal reviews for each of the assigned chapters in each unit on the date indicated on the syllabus. Only the following sources are acceptable for journal reviews:

Source On-line address

The New York Times

The Wall Street Journal

The Washington Post

The LA Times

The Christian Science Monitor

The Economist

The BBC

The Guardian Unlimited

NPR

Foreign Policy

At many of these web sites you can receive free news each day.

Do NOT attach your article to this review. The article must come from the past 6 months. Each review must be no more than one page typed (I will count off ten points if your review is more than one page) and should include the following information:

1) Heading

Your Name:

Today's Date:

Textbook Chapter Connection:

Source:

Article Title:

Article Publication Date:

2) Summary

Write a short summary of the article (one paragraph maximum).

3) Connection

Analyze the article and explain how it connects with the chapter (one paragraph maximum).
